

Activity 11: Inclusive Team Charter and Delegation

Leadership Masterclass · C904 · v4.0 · Fictional practice material

Goal

In this activity, you will assign ownership and make participation usable using a fictional Meridian Services situation. You will discuss different perspectives, practise a leadership response and produce a reusable work artifact. The exercise connects the topic concepts to an everyday team decision, and the debrief focuses on how your response affects other people.

What you will build

A completed inclusive team charter and delegation worksheet, a peer observation checklist and a practical next action.

Fictional scenario

Meridian's pilot team has an analyst, coordinator, client adviser and new joiner. The analyst is remote. The coordinator is capable but already leads two projects.

Preparation

Read the scenario. Open worksheet.docx or print worksheet.pdf. Work in pairs or triads. Use sample-completed-worksheet.pdf after making your own first attempt.

Step 1

Map each person's observed contribution, workload and development need.

Step 2

Define shared purpose, decision rights and a norm that includes remote participation.

Step 3

Draft a delegation agreement covering result, authority, resources and checkpoints.

Step 4

Test whether the recipient can explain the result and escalation trigger in their own words.

Step 5

Revise the allocation if workload or missing capability makes the plan unrealistic.

Test it

Check each item in checklist.md, then ask a peer to identify one clear strength and one concrete improvement. Confirm that your proposed action has an owner and a review point.

Debrief

What evidence changed your view? Which trade-off remains? Which behaviour will you practise next?
